Walk-in centre is nation's best

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A WALK-IN health centre, opened just 18 months ago, has been rated as joint first nationally in a patient satisfaction survey.

Haverhill's Crown Health Centre came out equal top in the Department of Health GP practice survey, which asked patients to rate the service in a number of categories.

Those included how easy it was to make an appointment, the ability to book an appointment two days in advance and patients' satisfaction with opening hours.

Naomi Cooper, practice manager, said: "All the staff are absolutely delighted at being ranked by our patients as joint number one surgery, not only for the region but nationally."

"It is an accolade we are proud of and reflects the dedication and hard work of the team here."

The news comes after a hectic Christmas period for the practice, but GPs still managed to see 82 per cent of patients within half an hour of arrival, and only 8 per cent had to wait longer than 45 minutes.

Patient Dudley Haylock, who is also on the centre's patient representative committee, said he visited the practice over the Christmas period when there were around 50 people in the waiting room.

Oliver here at last – and with teeth too!

WHEN bonny baby Oliver Jones entered the world his parents Joanne and Lee were amazed to find he already had his two front teeth.

Oliver is the first child of Joanne, 31, and Lee, 32, and was born at the Rosie Maternity Hospital in Cambridge just after 3am on December 30. Now back at home in Meeting Walk, Haverhill, with his proud parents, Oliver is causing quite a stir with visitors.

Oliver weighed in at a healthy 7lbs 12 oz and is doing well. However, his parents had waited four years for him to come along after struggling to conceive. Joanne suffered sickness throughout her pregnancy and spent time in hospital.

She said: "I had the worst pregnancy ever, I spent quite a lot of time in hospital on a drip because I was so poorly.

"We did see fertility doctors and have tests, but there was nothing wrong with either of us, it was just a matter of time.

"Oliver is a very, very good baby and it was a complete surprise to see his two teeth. They are not little stumps, they are proper teeth. It is not unknown for babies to be born with teeth, but it is extremely rare.

"He has to go back so that they can keep an eye on them. These may be his proper teeth, or he could get three sets. Everyone who comes to visit want to look at his teeth!"

Dad Lee said: "As soon as he was born you could see his two front teeth quite clearly, I was quite shocked to see them. They are normally about six months old before they start to get teeth through, so he is very early."

Chamber to reward the best of local business

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THE Haverhill Chamber of Commerce Business Awards were officially launched this week, as sponsors gathered to encourage people to nominate local firms worthy of recognition.

The Weekly News is backing the chamber's second business awards – which will be hosted in May by The Apprentice star, Claire Young – as official media partner.

Andrew Anderson, of headline sponsor Carisbrooke Investments, attended Tuesday's launch at Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College, along with representatives from other sponsors already on board for the prestigious awards. They include Vion Food Group, Mansol (Preforms) Ltd, Abbeycroft Leisure, Ipswich Building Society and West Suffolk College.

Sarah Howard, chairman of Haverhill Chamber of Commerce, said: "We are delighted that we have some fantastic local sponsors for our awards.

"This year promises to be bigger and better than the excellent awards event we held in 2008.

"It showcases the talents of local businesses and allows them to let their hair down after a very difficult two years.

"With The Apprentice star Claire Young as host and an amazing live band, Tangent, this is going to be an event not to be missed."

Andrew Anderson, development manager for Carisbrooke, said: "Carisbrooke has been in Haverhill as owners and developer of the Haverhill Business Park, as well as the Days Inn, and is keen to be involved in the local business fraternity and support it.

"Obviously, building and developing the business park has provided employment opportunities for the town and we aim to be here for many years in the future.

"We want to be as involved as possible in the local business community and support it wherever we can, and we are happy to sponsor these awards."

Derek Cherry, managing

director of Mansol Preforms, said: "After winning the Export and Business of the Year awards at the last Haverhill Chamber of Commerce Business Awards in 2008, we have continued to achieve growth in our export markets, especially for fibre optic preforms for the Chinese market.

"As a result, Mansol wishes to support this year's event with sponsorship of the Export Award. It is an excellent showcase for the promotion and encouragement of businesses in Haverhill and the surrounding area."

Daniel Newell, editor of the Weekly News said the paper was proud to again support the awards, which celebrate the best of local business.

He said: "It was a fantastic event in 2008 and we look forward to a bigger and better one in May.

"There can be no doubt that it has been a tough few years for many companies, but I have been so impressed by the Haverhill business community's positive outlook and the town's ability to attract new enterprises.

"We want to celebrate our hard-working businessmen and women and, as media partner, we'll be bringing our readers all the latest news and profiling some of the nominees in the lead up to the big night."

The awards will be presented at gala dinner ceremony to at Linton's Chilford Hall on Saturday, May 14.

Ms Howard said the chamber had worked hard to keep the same 2008 ticket price for the gala dinner.

Tickets are already on sale via the chamber's website.

Companies wanting to enter the awards – or those interested in becoming sponsors – can go to www.suffolkchamber.co.uk, or call Kim Brown, managing director of Boleyn Events on (01473) 712330, 07740 563198, or email kim@boleyn-events.com

Rowing the Atlantic: West Wickham's Chris Covey is a member of Team Hallin, which seeks a new crossing record

CP

Rowers set sights on Atlantic crossing record

A TEAM has embarked on a world record attempt to row across the Atlantic Ocean in the fastest time ever recorded.

Chris Covey, 25, from West Wickham, is part of the six-man Team Hallin. They hope to shave three days off the record, which stands at 33 days, seven hours and 30 minutes.

The crew, led by former Royal Navy Commando David Hosking MBE, set off from the Canary Islands just before 9pm on Wednesday. They hope to reach the Bahamas in 30 days.

Chris, a former pupil of The Perse School in Cambridge, said: "Leaving before 9pm during high water is crucial. We will be pulled away from Tenerife as the water level drops.

"It is a fractional advantage but every gain is vital if we want to cross the ocean in 30 days."

The team is prepared for dangers such as capsizing, dehydration and hurricanes in their bid to raise £60,000 for Combat Stress – the UK's leading military charity.

Hancock to meet with firefighters

A FIRE station fighting plans to cut four jobs from it staff is to receive a visit from its MP.

Matthew Hancock, MP for West Suffolk, has been invited to visit Haverhill Fire Station by the Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service, where he will be shown around by senior fire officer Pat Dacey.

He will also receive a briefing about current issues affecting the fire service and meet fire fighters and Fire Brigades Union representatives working at station.

Haverhill is one of a number of fire stations across Suffolk threatened with job losses as part of proposed cuts of £1.57 million to the fire service budget. The town's fire station is due to go over to five-day full-time cover from the present seven-day cover. Weekends would be covered by on-call or retained fire fighters.

The Fire Brigades Union is also threatening legal action over the plan to transfer Suffolk's fire service control to neighbouring Cambridgeshire.

Andy Message, acting county secretary of the FBU and a Haverhill fire fighter, said: "Haverhill is due to get another 4,000 homes and is one of the fastest-growing towns in the UK. We need more fire stations in St Edmundsbury borough and more fire fighters – not less.

"There is a lot of industrial risk in the town, like IFF, which is very close to the town centre and residential areas. The company has reduced its internal fire team, which does not operate at evenings and weekends.

"The effect of toxic fumes could be devastating in the extra five or 10 minutes it would take to get an on-call crew to the factory. We don't want to see anyone wait any longer for a fire engine."

Mr Hancock said before his visit: "The fire service put its duty to protecting the safety of the public before everything else.

"Our firefighters do a brilliant job and one of the reasons I am keen to visit the fire service is to have a better understanding of their work."

Burglar struck as couple slept

A HOMELESS young father was jailed for 12 months after burgling a couple's home while they slept upstairs.

Joseph Tillett pleaded guilty to stealing £700 worth of camera equipment after climbing in a cottage's open window in the middle of the night on Haverhill Road, in Horseheath, in June last year.

The 21-year-old father of one, who was living in a crack den at the time, was arrested two months later after fingerprint evidence on the window and a toy safe resulted in a positive match on the police database.

He claimed he had been coerced into the burglary by a friend, but police found no further fingerprint evidence.

Tillett, of Landseer Court in Haverhill, was given the suspended sentence at Cambridge Crown Court on Tuesday.

Judge Gareth Hawkesworth said he regarded the burglary as a "very serious criminal offence" and was only suspending the sentence because of Tillett's seven-year clean record.

He told the court: "Normally, we would not have the slightest hesitation with sending you to prison for 18 months but if you were to go to prison you would be subjected to the influence of others.

"You have the opportunity of proving that you can stay out of trouble and dedicate yourself to supporting your child."

Dicken Reid, mitigating, added: "He is aware that he needs to be punished."

Tillett will be required to do 200 hours of unpaid work, as well as pay back the cost of the cameras.

Walk-in clinic rated nation's best by patients

He said: "They are doing a wonderful job down there and thoroughly deserve this recognition. All the other doctors were closed when I went in, so everyone goes there. The pressure that the staff and doctors were under was immense. I had no problem with the treatment I received and I think the town should appreciate having it there."

Since opening in June 2009, Crown Health Centre has treated more than 30,000 walk-in patients, with many of them subsequently registering there. It is available to those in Haverhill and the surrounding areas and registered and non-registered patients can make appointments alongside a walk-in service. The centre is open 8am until 8pm, 365 days a year, including Bank Holidays.

Suffolk GP practices achieved an overall satisfaction rate of 93.3 per cent in the survey, one of the highest in the east of England, and well above the regional average of 89.8 per cent.

GP practices in Suffolk were ranked 2nd place in the east of England for ability of patients to see their preferred GP and satisfaction with GP surgery opening hours.

Trucker tells of battle to save fireball victim

BY SUZAN UZEL

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A LORRY driver has told of his desperate fight to save the life of a man who was burning to death after a car exploded.

David Wilson, 24, who had been making a delivery, was stopped by traffic as he tried to pull out of a junction onto the road leading to Milton Country Park, near Cambridge, at about 2pm last Wednesday.

He said another driver, who had also been stuck in traffic, parked right next to the fire.

Mr Wilson, from Haverhill, said: "He got out, looked at him, got back into his van and just drove off."

"If that bloke had just taken his jacket off and laid it over him it could have saved his life. It's disgusting."

Mr Wilson added: "The flames were that big that you couldn't make out what it was at first."

He said that because the other driver did not react to the incident, he thought it must be rubbish on fire.

But he added: "I thought I'd better go down to see if anyone needed any help. I drove down there and as I pulled away to go down I made out the bloke's legs, and he was waving."

"I grabbed a jumper and jacket from my lorry and ran over and started patting him down, but it looked like it was causing him a lot of pain. I went back to the lorry to get the fire extinguishers."

The Weekly News has told how Jon Norton, 34, and Mick Harland, 49, helped to douse the man's flames.

Mr Wilson added: "He must

Dead man was a father-of-three

THE man who died of horrific burns after a car exploded was a father of three and a popular bus driver. He has been named locally as Darren Seaman, who is believed to have been in his 30s.

A statement released by Stagecoach, where Mr Seaman worked, said "Darren was a much valued member of staff who had worked for us for several years. He was a popular driver with both his colleagues and passengers alike."

"He will be missed by us all and our thoughts are with his family at this difficult time."

Scene: firecrews at Milton Country Park, where Mr Seaman died.

A distraught colleague gave a tribute to his co-worker.

He said: "He was a great man who would do anything for anyone and was always happy to help. We are all so shocked by what happened and those that had seen him recently said he was cheerful, and he never seemed to be down."

"Our thoughts are with the family at this very difficult time and we are trying to think of something we can do in his memory."

have been covered in fuel. To be on fire in that way, there must have been some kind of accelerant.

"I squirted him with the extinguisher and the fire went out very quickly."

He said: "The bloke was still conscious and still very responsive. I said, 'can you breathe?' He shook his head and I thought, 'oh my God.'"

Mr Wilson said someone called 999 for an ambulance.

He added: "I felt so sorry for the bloke. I was telling him it would be OK. He tried rolling onto his side. As he moved his skin was coming off."

"I stayed with him until the responses stopped. There was no movement. He was badly burnt."

A series of explosions engulfed the car and were still continuing, so the men decided to get behind the lorry for protection, but Mr Wilson said: "I didn't want him to be left on his own after we left."

"I went back to comfort him and there was still no response."

Mr Wilson added: "I'd like to send my condolences to his family. I hope knowing someone was with him until he died and that he wasn't on his own helps in some way."

A police spokesman said investigations into the circumstances surrounding the fire were still taking place. It is not being treated as suspicious at this stage.

Growth will give us prosperity

Sir, Regarding your article, Council urges PM to use cuts caution (Weekly News, January 6).

I assume the comments are from the same councillors that recently turned Wickes away from the town? The scheme would have brought lots of flexible working hours for some of these struggling families and young people.

It's so nice of these same people who were voted into office (I for one didn't vote them) to be concerned about the town's areas of deprivation.

Until this town is allowed to grow, then people living here won't be able to prosper.

I can only urge these councillors to rethink the refusal on the project site and allow someone to make that vast, empty space an asset to this town.

(factory manager), unknown, unknown and an unknown recipient of the award. My best estimate of the date is either 1990 or 1991."

Former managing director Keith Choat also saw the photo and wrote: "The Memories photograph was taken in late 1990 or early 1991."

"It was for a presentation to an apprentice in the marine division of Davis Group, whose name escapes me."

"The photo is a real blast from the past, as the factory on Rookwood Way was demolished several years ago." The photograph was, in fact, taken in March 1990.

steps to stop the illness from spreading, including carrying out enhanced cleaning in the affected areas and ensuring patients from the affected wards are not transferred elsewhere in the hospital.

Additional signs have been put up to remind visitors to wash their hands with soap and water, while anyone who has shown virus symptoms is urged to stay away.

Gwen Nuttall, the hospital's chief operating officer, said: "We are managing the current cases using our stringent infection control policies, and our cleaning staff have been working hard to make sure enhanced cleaning takes place on the affected wards."

"We advise anyone who has had diarrhoea or vomiting to stay away from the hospital for at least 72 hours after they have recovered."

Pioneering spirit for hospice plan

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A CARING town has been chosen to pilot a neighbour scheme launched by its local hospice.

The scheme, started by St Nicholas Hospice Care in Haverhill, aims to offer help with everyday tasks, such as walking the dog or picking up a prescription, if people are too ill to do the jobs themselves.

The newly-launched Hospice Neighbours scheme will assist those suffering life-shortening illness and their families, by sending volunteers – or 'neighbours' – to help with the little jobs that can become overwhelming when they are ill. People who are ill, or their carers, can contact the hospice to get help.

Haverhill was chosen for the pilot scheme, before it is extended across West Suffolk and Thetford, due to the "great community" spirit in the town.

In 2009, the Weekly News joined forces with the hospice to launch the Hospice at Home Appeal, and generous readers helped raise £40,000 to pay for patents in Haverhill and surrounding villages to receive treatment in their own homes, rather than having to travel to the Bury St Edmunds hospice.

Emma Page, voluntary services manager, said: "People in Haverhill have always been generous in their support of the hospice, whether through volunteering their help or fundraising, so when we decided to pilot Hospice Neighbours we knew we had to start here."

The first Hospice Neighbours volunteers have been recruited and are in training. The team now needs people to get in touch if they could do with some help.

Ms Page said: "I am excited that this innovative scheme is now up and running, but I am keen to get the message out to the community that our Hospice Neighbours are here – ready and willing to help."

"We really want people to come forward if they think they would benefit from the Hospice Neighbours. At the same time, we are still looking for more volunteers."

This week, the window of Haverhill's St Nicholas Hospice Care shop have been transformed with an eye-catching display to send out the message that the scheme is now running.

Hospice Neighbours co-ordinator Kay Newman will be at the shop, at 61a High Street, next Tuesday, Thursday, January 20, and Saturday, January 22, from 10am-2pm, to answer questions and talk about the scheme.

■ If you or a loved one are suffering life-shortening illness and think you could use the scheme – or if you are interested in volunteering – contact (01284) 715589.

Here to help: Hospice Neighbours co-ordinator Kay Newman is ready to talk to people about the new scheme at the charity's Haverhill shop. CP

Police hit out over drink-drive increase

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

DRIVERS are continuing to "dice with death" by drink-driving, with an increase in positive breath tests over Christmas – despite an awareness campaign.

Suffolk police have been left "disappointed" with the number of people still determined to "put careers on the line" following the conclusion of the Christmas 2010 drink-drive awareness campaign.

Figures show a 2.4 per cent increase in the year-on-year Christmas campaigns, with 102 motorists out of 1,118 stopped (9.1 per cent), arrested for drink-driving. This compares to December 2009, when 6.7 per cent of those breath tested were positive.

The force's month-long campaign began on December 1 and saw officers conduct breath tests county-wide. On average, around three motorists were caught over the drink-drive limit every day of the campaign.

The worst offending group was men over the age of 25, where 11.1 per cent failed a breath test. Only 3.3 per cent of tests conducted on those between the ages of 16-19 were found to be positive.

In total, 6.9 per cent of all drivers tested in the under-25s age group provided a positive breath test, compared with 9.8 per cent of all drivers more than 25 years old. Furthermore, 409 of the total breath tests were conducted following a road collision, of which 31 gave a positive reading. This equates to 7.5 per cent and is a 2.3 per cent increase on last year.

Chief Inspector Ady Dawson is angry that motorists continue to "dice with death" and risk everything for alcohol.

He said: "We set out to eradicate this scourge from society, but we can only do so much. We're truly disappointed in the attitude shown by a significant number of people who don't seem to care about risking their lives, their job and social embarrassment."

"We will not tolerate drink or drug-driving and will continue to pursue these criminals throughout the year."

"These people are not above the law and they will be prosecuted. We will continue working with local media organisations so that our work is publicised and those who choose to risk lives will be exposed. Drink-driving ruins lives all year round."

Anyone who suspects someone of drink-driving is asked to report them immediately to the police or to Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Firm offers survey in bid to cut heating bills

FIRMS in West Suffolk are being offered a chance to save money by reducing heat loss at their premises.

The scheme has been launched by St Edmundsbury Borough Council and West Suffolk Green Business Forum and works by using infra-red thermal imaging, which gives a detailed picture of where a building is losing heat and wasting money.

The survey company, IRT Surveys (East Anglia), also uses the image to estimate the cost of heat waste financially and in CO2 emissions. More information is available on the council website at www.stedmundsbury.gov.uk/sebc/live/ThermalImage.cfm.

A limited number of places are available for snapshot external surveys, at a cost of £100 excluding VAT. The usual cost is more than £250.

To book a discounted survey, email a purchase order to andrew.oswald@stedsbcc.gov.uk using the email title "GBF Thermal Imaging Survey". Make purchase orders out to St Edmundsbury Borough Council, Environmental Health and Housing Services West Suffolk House Western Way Bury St Edmunds Suffolk, IP33 3YU.

For further information, contact Andrew Oswald on (01284) 757622.

Specials chief focuses on the future

Experienced: deputy chief Dean Knight has served with the specials in west Suffolk for nearly 20 years.

THE new deputy chief of special constables in Suffolk served for nearly 20 years in the west of the county.

Dean Knight, 45, who lives in the Brandon area, has risen through the ranks of volunteer force, working mainly in the Forest Heath district.

Before his new appointment as deputy of the county's specials, he was Special Superintendent for the west area of Suffolk.

In his day job, Mr Knight, who is married with two children, is head of bid and proposal management for parcels company DHL International.

Last year he organised the Suffolk contribution to the National Specials Weekend in 2010, which targeted vehicle offences and crime. It was hailed as a success, with more than 1,000 additional hours of duty being performed during the weekend by the specials.

This year he will again organise a similar event, which will focus on anti-social behaviour and working more closely with communities.

In 2010, he was awarded a county policing command merit award for dealing with a large disorder incident during the World Cup.

He said: "I am delighted to have been selected as the Deputy Chief Officer for the Suffolk Special Constabulary.

"The Special Constabulary is a valued member of the Suffolk police family and I want to see it continue to go from strength to strength. The specials will play an even greater part within the policing of Suffolk over the coming years."

Mr Knight will be deputy to Paul Goldsmith, chief officer for the special constabulary in Suffolk.

Baron Risby takes seat among peers

FORMER Haverhill MP Richard Spring took his seat in the House of Lords on Tuesday.

Mr Spring (pictured left), who stood down last year after 18 years as an MP, has taken the title of Baron Risby of Haverhill.

He was one of three new life peers to be introduced to the House of Lords.

When his appointment was announced in November he said he was "thrilled" at the honour.

He said: "I have to recognise this wouldn't have happened if it wasn't for people in Haverhill and other parts of my constituency who put me in Parliament."

Lord Risby, 64, was MP for Bury St Edmunds from 1992 to 1997. The constituency included the Newmarket and Mildenhall areas. With a change in constituency boundaries he went on to represent West Suffolk, which included Haverhill, from 1997 until last year.

The Parliamentary seat was won by Matthew Hancock at last year's election. He has praised Lord Risby for his previous work in the constituency.

"This wouldn't have happened if it wasn't for people in Haverhill and other parts of my constituency who put me in Parliament."

Jade so close to dream of stardom

Star-bound: Jade Donno has made it through to the final of Open Mic UK and will now sing at the O2 in London.

Teenager Jade Donno is hoping to get her big break after making it through to the grand final of a national singing competition.

Jade, 16, from Sturmer, has found success in Open Mic UK, the biggest singing competition for unsigned singers and solo artists in the country, which attracts more than 8,000 entrants every year.

Jade sang in the regional finals in Ipswich and then in the area finals in Bedford before winning a place in the grand final on Saturday in front of a live audience and judging panel comprised of industry experts at the IndigO2, at the O2 in London.

Apart from the prestige and experience of singing on stage at the O2, the acts are now competing for prizes worth more than £50,000. Prizes include exclusive masterclasses with some of the best musicians in the world, clothing, studio time, an all-expenses paid trip to Dublin to record a music video, a recording contract with up to £30,000 investment and a UK tour with more than 100 gig dates.

Jade said: "I know everyone says this – from X Factor to Britain's Got Talent – but it is a dream come true! I am so excited and can't wait to get up on that stage and sing my heart out."

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

I just want to have a brilliant time and enjoy every second of the experience. Not many 16 year olds can say they have sung at the O2. This is an amazing opportunity for all the acts to show what they can do in front of some of the leading people in the music business. It's not just about winning the competition – there are lots of other potentially amazing things that could come out of this performance. Of course, there's no pressure on me – apart from the round-the-world cruise brochures my parents have been browsing through when they think I'm not looking."

During the regional and area finals, Jade won two Exposure Awards and prizes of more than £550. Her family and friends will be out in force at the O2 to support her on Saturday.

Tickets are available from www.openmicuk.co.uk, from Ticketmaster, or call Paul Donno on (01787) 281688 for more information.

How to hit the jackpot when buying souvenirs

From jubilee biscuit tins bearing Her Majesty's regal grin to mugs marking Andy and Fergie's ill-fated nuptials, royal memorabilia has long been a staple of every patriot's kitchen.

And given that Prince William and Kate Middleton are tying the knot this year, brace yourself for a deluge of tea-towels, trays and T-shirts emblazoned with the happy couple's badly-reproduced faces.

Not so great: most mass-produced royal souvenirs are barely saleable, let alone valuable Unspeakable tat or antiques of the future? EMMA HIGGINBOTHAM asks a local auctioneer whether it's worth buying Wills 'n' Kate wedding memorabilia.

But whether you consider it to be the height of chic or appalling tat, there's no denying that there's a market for such stuff; so would it be worth buying some Wills 'n' Kate souvenirs to keep tucked away as an investment?

Predictably, the answer is yes... and no.

"This country has had a very long tradition of celebrating royal events," says Charles Ashton, an auctioneer at Cheffins in Cambridge.

"If you go back to the 17th and 18th centuries, there were tin-glazed charger dishes painted with monarchs on horseback, and then you get little cups and mugs as well.

"Most of these don't survive after three or four hundred years, but occasionally one finds a great rarity that will turn up that's been at the back of a kitchen cupboard, or used to feed the cat."

Yet while a charger dish adorned with Charles II's royal face can fetch as much as £60,000, the problem with more recent memorabilia is that there's just too much of it around.

"There's been an awful lot of, shall we say, cheap and nasty things that have been produced, and sometimes the supply can rather outstrip demand," says Charles. "A lot of things just are not yet terribly saleable, let alone valuable, because they were produced in such large numbers. We see a lot of items from the Victorian jubilees, and even in those days things were produced for the masses, so you get cups and saucers and mugs and dishes and plates... you name it, they produced it."

But pick your royal carefully, and you could be in luck. In 2003, Charles conducted an auction of Diana memorabilia, a very personal collection of hand-written cards, letters and gifts given by the People's Princess to her 'travelling yeoman', Sgt Ronald Lewis, who died in 2001.

The 80 lots had been expected to fetch £20,000, but fierce bidding meant they sold for closer to £48,000.

So could William and Kate memorabilia ever be worth as much?

"Well, I think it remains to be seen how the nation takes Kate in to their hearts," says Charles. "Will she become the next Diana? Well I suppose no-one can replace Diana. But that's an impossible question – it's too early. I suppose if some 'event' was to happen, there might be renewed interest, but who's to say?"

Untimely, deaths aside, it seems that the best way to get good money for your memorabilia is to find items with a personal touch: a joking valentine card sent from Diana to Sgt Lewis sold for a whopping £2,000, but even just a signature can make an item more saleable.

"It's getting away from the mass-produced tat. You'd have to wait centuries before that's worth anything because there's so much of it about, and it's entirely different from something that has been touched by the hand of somebody like Diana."

But if getting one of the royals to write you a little love note is out of the question, the next best thing is to track down a proper souvenir of the day, like a ticket for Westminster Abbey or an Order of Service: "If you've got something that was used on the day by someone who was invited to the service, then yes, that would be great. It all comes down to rarity again," says Charles. But beware, he adds, that it isn't something that's just been re-issued as a 'souvenir edition'.

"If someone's looking for an investment opportunity, the thing to do is to spend a bit more and buy something that's a true limited edition piece, and then, I'm afraid, wait a good number of years and hope that the collector's market for it is a growing one," he concludes. "Buy it because you like it, buy the best you can afford, but for goodness sake don't expect it to be worth a king's ransom in the bat of an eyelid."

Wedding belle: Kate Middleton and Prince William leaving the wedding of friends.

Top tips for royal collectors

■ Mass-produced royal memorabilia dates from Queen Victoria's golden jubilee in 1887, cups from which are worth around £80 today. Much rarer ones, from her coronation in 1838, can fetch £1,000.

■ People assume that Edward VIII's coronation memorabilia would be valuable, as he abdicated. But, says Charles: "It's not rare or valuable, because in the lead up an awful lot was still produced. It's only if you've got something with the word 'abdicated' on that it becomes more valuable."

■ Rarity always wins through: because George IV was unpopular, no-one wanted to buy his coronation mugs and few were made – meaning they can now make up to £3,500.

■ If you're planning to invest in some William and Kate memorabilia, buy the best: a Wedgwood or Royal Worcester commemorative plate or mug is already valuable, purely from a manufacturers' viewpoint.

■ Fans of royal grins may be disappointed, though. Much of the official merchandise doesn't feature Will and Kate's faces, but an intertwining of their initials.

■ Oh, and try to avoid becoming like Janet and Philip Williams of Woonana, Australia... They have more than 12,000 items of royal memorabilia, and had to move to a larger house because of their huge collection. They even have a room dedicated to Diana, in which Elton John's Candle In The Wind plays on a loop.

Spate of thefts spark warning

POLICE have renewed their warning about catalytic converter thefts after a spate of offences that began in December has continued into the new year.

Suffolk Police had reports of 19 catalytic converter thefts last month, taken from utility vehicles and vans across the county. They included four in Haverhill and surrounding villages, and one from Newmarket.

In the first 10 days of this year, 16 catalytic converters have been reported stolen, including one in Thurlow, one in Newmarket and one in Red Lodge.

The converters have been removed from vehicles parked in a variety of locations, from car parks and driveways to lay-bys or in the street.

Crime reduction officer Bernard Plume advised that private vehicles should be kept in a well-secured garage where possible.

He added that if no garage is available, vehicles should be left in a well-lit,

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

public area, parked in such a way as to make access to the catalytic converter difficult, or parallel with another vehicle.

He said commercial vehicles should also be kept in a locked building or compound and advised companies to use alarms, lighting and CCTV.

Catalytic converters can be marked with etching or UV pens, and with SmartWater – an invisible liquid with a unique formula that proves forensically where the marked item comes from.

Police work with scrap metal dealers, visiting yards to ensure checks are made on all metals brought in for sale and that any suspicious items or persons are reported.

Any persons or vehicles seen acting suspiciously around other vehicles should be reported to police on (01473) 613500. Dial 999 if a crime is in progress.

Council cuts speed camera cash

THE future of speed cameras in Suffolk could be in doubt after councillors cut the £1.2 million funding from the partnership which operates them.

The county has just seven fixed cameras, but there are many more sites where camera vans operate, including on the A11 at Barton Mills.

The county council's cabinet has agreed to withdraw funding after April 1.

Police are hoping to replace the cash with money paid by motorists, who are given the option of taking driver improvement courses instead of having a fine and points on their licence.

But the Suffolk Police are waiting for a national decision that will set guidelines for when the courses can be offered.

A county police spokesman said: "Suffolk Constabulary is working with the county council to determine whether the SafeCam structure can be sustained, following the withdrawal of the council from the partnership."

He said traffic officers would still use hand-held devices to detect speeding motorists.

A camera in Cambridge Road, Newmarket, near the junction with Hamilton Road, is used to enforce a 40mph limit.

Classes offer tips for new parents

PREGNANT women and soon-to-be dads whose babies are due from April to June can get some top tips at an ante-natal course due to start in March.

The first NCT ante-natal course run in Haverhill was held at Tiny Toes Nursery, and a reunion was held recently at the end of the course, giving a chance for all the couples to get together with their babies.

There were five couples on the last course – three boys and two girls – and the same numbers will be available for the coming course.

Helen Collier will run the next course, also at Tiny Toes Nursery, off the Haverhill by-pass.

Subjects will include pregnancy and birth choices, choosing where to have your baby, relaxation, breathing and massage, home birth and water birth, what happens in labour, pain relief (natural and medical), the role of the partner in labour, looking after a newborn, early parenting and lifestyle changes.

Strike threats over HQ move

A SHAKE-UP of 999 services has been approved following the Government's decision to scrap the £23 million fire control centre in Waterbeach.

Strike action is now threatened after Cambridgeshire's fire bosses agreed last week to take on Suffolk's 999 fire services, which will lead to jobs being axed.

Cambridgeshire and Peterborough Fire Authority approved the plans at a Shire Hall meeting.

But Adrian Clarke, regional secretary of the Fire Brigades Union (FBU), said 15 jobs were now at risk.

Suffolk Fire Service has to be out of its control centre by November because it planned to move to Waterbeach.

Fire bosses said a deal had to be struck on Monday with the company supplying the technology for extra facilities to accommodate the services at the Hinchbrook.

Some authority members objected to the move, saying it was "rushed and lacked detail" and feared the county's taxpayers' may be left with a £500,000 redundancy bill.

Cllr Geoffrey Heathcock said: "I start from the premise of being more than a little anxious. I am sceptical given the history of the regional control centre.

"Let's not pull any punches. Suffolk is in a hole but in a hole of its own making. We are being asked to put our heads on the block on a journey with very little detail."

But Assistant Chief Fire Officer Neil Newberry said the move would save taxpayers' money.

He said: "There will be some redundancies but the cost of those will sit at Suffolk's door."

PHILOSOPHY and HAPPINESS

Don't we all want to be happy? Why then is it that so few of us achieve lasting and fulfilling happiness? Do we have to be slaves to government cuts, the falling housing market, rising fuel prices, dodgy personal relationships, etc etc? Maybe by applying the teachings of the wise, both ancient and contemporary, we can discover for ourselves the truth about who and what we really are. Come and find out!

MAGICAL MUSIC: the Johann Strauss dancers performing in period costume.

Gala tribute to 'Waltz King'

The Johann Strauss Gala, the definitive tribute to the 'Waltz King' and his sparkling legacy, is coming to Cambridge Corn Exchange next week.

This magical showcase, celebrating the most popular music, dance and song from the Strauss family, has been captivating audiences for more than 30 years.

Vienna in the 19th century was awash with opulent parties, as people became hypnotised by the latest dance craze, the waltz.

The waltz started life as a peasant folk dance. However, it was soon adopted by the urban classes and the market was cornered by Johann Strauss Snr, the grandfather of light music composers.

Within a matter of years, the Strauss family held a monopoly on the waltz and polka, as they fed the demand of Vienna's dancing enthusiasts.

The Johann Strauss Gala captures the excitement felt by the citizens of Vienna, as they made the transition from the stately minuet to the freer, more expressive new dance forms. Formed in 1975 to mark the 150th anniversary of the birth of Johann Strauss, the Johann Strauss Gala showcases a mix of Viennese music, dance and song which is as fresh today as it was then.

The Johann Strauss Orchestra will be directed from the violin in traditional Viennese manner by music director, David Juritz, whose charm and charisma have made him a favourite with audiences across the country.

Many of the most popular songs of the day will be brought to life by sparkling soprano-soloist Amy Freston.

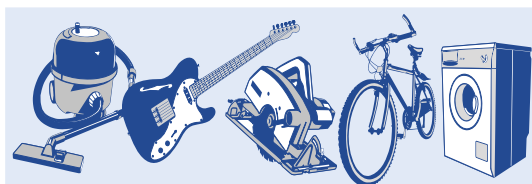

In addition to a wonderful programme including The Blue Danube Waltz, Radetzky March, Champagne Polka, Trisch Tratsch Polka and The Laughing Song from Die Fledermaus, an integral part of the evening's entertainment is provided by the Johann Strauss Dancers.

Performing in period costume, their routines capture and enhance the spirit of the music. They have been created by award-winning choreographer Christopher Hampson whose work includes pieces for English National Ballet and Royal New Zealand Ballet.

The big film

certificate 12A 118m

"THE British are coming!" screenwriter Colin Welland famously declared in 1982 when he collected his Oscar for Chariots Of Fire. Almost 30 years later, his prophecy seems to be coming true. Slumdog Millionaire was the toast of Tinseltown in 2008, garnering almost every trophy in sight, and now The King's Speech is poised to do the same, and win Colin Firth a well-deserved Academy Award into the bargain. His portrayal of King George VI in Tom Hooper's majestic comedy drama is heartrending.

Firth is matched laugh for laugh by Geoffrey Rush in imperial form, and the cream of homegrown acting talent provides illustrious support, including Timothy Spall as Winston Churchill. The King's Speech is an impeccably crafted chapter from recent British history that charts a remarkable and unlikely friendship between two men from opposite sides of the class divide.

When King George V (Michael

Gambon) dies in 1936, eldest son Edward (Guy Pearce) ascends to the throne, but his reign is shrouded in scandal as he continues to romance American divorcee Wallis Simpson (Eve Best). Love triumphs over duty and Edward abdicates, forcing younger son Albert (Colin Firth) into the spotlight. However, the newly crowned King George VI suffers from a crippling stammer, which renders him unable to deliver public addresses. With war imminent and the country looking to its king for leadership, Queen Elizabeth (Helena Bonham Carter) approaches unconventional Australian-born speech therapist Lionel Logue (Geoffrey Rush) on the recommendation of a friend. The King's Speech, which was partly filmed in Ely, is a crowd-pleasing, heart-tugging gem, seen through the eyes of a man who is frightened to say a word for fear of what might – or might not – come out. Firth delivers the performance of his life, battling valiantly against his condition, while Rush is hysterical as the linguist who refuses any concessions to his king. Their double-act is glorious, including an unforgettable barrage of expletives in the name of therapy. The finale is guaranteed to have audiences cheering and sobbing with joy.

GARDEN DELIGHT:
Carol Klein gives advice on growing snowdrops, above,
in her new book,
right.

Springing forward to a snowdrop fantasy

In the depths of winter, television gardening expert Carol Klein cannot wait until spring when she can wander through the woodland area of her Devon garden to see what gems are emerging. "I love that feeling of intimacy and enclosure in my woodland garden," she enthuses.

"I've chosen plants which typify the setting, starting off the year with snowdrops, which resist any amount of wind yet those heavy bell flowers stay suspended on little, skinny stems which allow them to move around without coming to any harm. Left to their own devices they will colonise and spread."

Woodland gardens traditionally welcome plants which will thrive in shade, or at least dappled shade. Snowdrops are followed by a succession of other bulbs, hellebores and pulmonarias, primroses, springtime trilliums and erythroniums (dog tooth violets), woodruff, wood anemones and bluebells in the shady garden.

Epimediums are among Carol's favourite woodland plants. They will thrive even in dry, dense shade and are grown primarily for their foliage; heart-shaped leaves borne on wiry stems and changing colour as the season progresses.

by Hannah Stephenson

When planting epimediums among tree roots, add plenty of humus-rich material around the roots but avoid strong manure as epimediums, in their natural habitat, would be fed by leaf litter.

"In March, our native primrose is at home among oak leaves and ferns," she says.

"If the primrose was a new introduction from some far-off place, gardeners would fight each other to possess it. Perfect pale flowers with an egg-yolk centre held on stems the colour of baby birds above rosettes of dark, crinkled leaves, the primula epitomises the coming of spring.

"In its natural habitat it seeds itself around, each new plant becoming an established clump, spreading out gradually in search of nutrients among the debris of leaves and moss. Initially in the garden, though, it needs a helping hand. It is a sociable plant and always looks its best in colonies."

Her observations are detailed in Life In A Cottage Garden, a new six-part BBC Two series which started last Friday, accompanied by a tie-in book.

If you have a shady spot with a canopy of trees, rake up the leaves in autumn and make as much leaf mould as you can, she advises, which can then be used as a mulch or to enrich other parts of the garden. Use some as a natural mulch around trees and groups of larger plants, but keep mulch away from young plant stems, as it can rot them if too much.

"Don't just leave the fallen leaves, because they may be hiding some of your tiny treasures such as erythroniums and pretty Epimedium grandiflorum and versicolor. Don't leave fallen leaves on hellebores because they grow so close to one another that any disease will spread."

Research the plants you want to incorporate in your woodland area, as some have different needs to others.

"You need to put things in places you know they would grow naturally. Epimedium versicolor, for instance, will grow in very dry shade and will grow in tree roots, but that wouldn't work with trilliums because they need a good root run."

Whatever the soil type in your woodland space, the ground will need to be well prepared. Weed areas and dig well-rotted manure or compost into the ground, especially in areas of dry shade, where plants may take a bit longer to establish. Once they are planted, water them well and cover them with a mulch of leaf mould or compost, which will help retain moisture.

Even in small woodland corners, make space for a rustic seat where you can relax and enjoy this shady spot on a hot day. Before you know it, summer will be here and you can take shelter in your cool, quiet woodland haven.

Life In A Cottage Garden, by Carol Klein and Jonathan Buckley, was published by BBC Books on January 6, price £20.

Car firms ease pain of VAT rise

CAR manufacturers have devised a wide range of strategies for ensuring that their prices stay attractive for new year buyers following the VAT hike to 20 per cent.

Honda is easing the pain of the new year VAT rise by absorbing the price increase for customers throughout January. The manufacturer is holding 2010 prices on all CR-V, CR-Z, Insight and Accord models and selected Civic variants until the end of the month. So, by not passing on the VAT rise, customers can benefit from a £443 saving on a new Accord 2.0 ES GT.

Hyundai has gone a step further – it has not only frozen the VAT increase, but is actually paying the 20 per cent VAT on selected i10, i20 and i30 Comfort models as part of a range of VAT-tastic 2011 offers. Hyundai's 20 per cent contribution on the selected models is on now and will be valid until the end of March. With this offer, the highly acclaimed i10 city car is just

THE SUBARU IMPREZA WRX STi: Prices held at 2010 levels.

£7,109 for the Comfort 1.2 5dr model, a saving of £1,410, the i20 supermini is £8,809 for the Comfort 1.2 3-door model, a saving of £1,750 and the i30 mid-sized family hatchback is £11,605 for the Comfort 1.4 5dr model, a saving of £2,285.

In addition Seat is extending and refreshing its successful VAT-free offer by adding in a new half-VAT deal that amounts to a 10 per cent discount off a further tranche of Seats. Starting with Seat's biggest seller, the Ibiza SC and 5dr, the VAT-free offers apply to 1.4 Chill and 1.4 83bhp petrol models while all other versions (excluding the entry level cars) benefit from the new half-VAT discount. All versions of the third 'silhouette' in the Ibiza line-up, the capacious Ibiza ST, also enjoy the VAT-free deal. The larger Leon, Altea and Alhambra models also enjoy either a full or half VAT discount. The new suite of offers will run until March 3, and applies to eligible retail customer cars registered before this date.

Meanwhile Subaru has kept 80 per cent of its range at 2010 prices. Dealers have also put plans in place to ensure customers get top value. Other opportunities include:

■ Mazda has offered to pay VAT on selected cars in the range until March.

■ Fiat has reduced the price of selected models including the top selling 500 and Punto Evo in order to cover some or all of the VAT rise.

■ Kia is offering up to £1,000 customer saving in order to offset the VAT increase.

'Green' grants kickstart new era

GOVERNMENT grants of up to £5,000 are now available for motorists buying electric or ultra-low emission cars.

Transport Secretary Philip Hammond has hailed the £43 million scheme as the start of "an exciting green revolution".

But most of the nine cars eligible for the grant will still cost well over £20,000, even taking into account the £5,000 discount. Also, the Electrical Contractors' Association (ECA) has expressed concerns about whether the necessary infrastructure is in place for the scheme to succeed.

Only three of the vehicles – the Mitsubishi iMiEV, the Smart fortwo electric drive, and the Peugeot iON (pictured above) – are so far available. The other six vehicles will be available from March to early 2012 and include the Vauxhall Ampera, which will cost more than £28,000 – taking into account the Government grant.

The other vehicles are the Citroen C-Zero, the Nissan Leaf, the Tata Vista EV, the Toyota Prius Plug-in and the Chevrolet Volt. Further vehicles will become available later this year.

The Government grant is for up to a quarter of the cost of an electric car up to a maximum of £5,000. All those purchasing these vehicles will be exempt from vehicle excise duty car tax.

Best value cars of 2011 (so far!)

LOOKING for top value new car buys in 2011?

There's loads to choose from, write Mike Goodwin and David Seaborne.

Stylish and comfortable, the Vauxhall Corsa is a great option for 2011. The new model is based on the Fiat chassis, and its exterior has changed significantly from the older versions. Not only is it inexpensive, but it's great for beginning drivers.

A cool and roomy car is the Renault Clio. Recently redesigned and now resembling its big brother, the Renault Mégane, the Clio is a great buy for economy, insurance and road tax costs. It has a smaller engine with fewer emissions, so it has lower running costs overall.

Fun, quirky and affordable, the Fiat 500 is the "revival" car of yesteryear, and it is quite different from its predecessor. It's enjoyable to drive and cheap to run, which makes it a great value for the buyer.

A car that will carry over into 2011 was one of the top-selling small cars of 2010 – the Ford Fiesta. Not only is it cost effective with everyday fueling costs, it has a new, redesigned look and no longer resembles the older, "boxy" models from before.

If you're looking for a great ride, the Volkswagen Polo is an excellent contender. While it's pricier than some other economy cars, the name says it all – well built and reliable.

It may look small, but the Toyota Yaris is quite deceiving – this little car not only drives well, but it is also quite spacious inside. Packed with Toyota technology, it's a great choice for those wanting a comfortable yet affordable drive.

For a great budget car, the Hyundai i20 is a reliable vehicle that is well built. It comes with a five year warranty, and compared to other cars in its class, the package that you receive for the price is almost unbeatable.

Whether you're looking for a car for yourself or for the family, the Chevrolet Aveo has models and deals that will fit your lifestyle. With Chevrolet's "5 Year Promise," your purchase includes Warranty, MOT Test Warranty, free servicing, health check and roadside assistance for five years. What a bargain!

Reliable and high in resale value, the Honda Civic is a dependable car if you're constantly on the go. With a somewhat futuristic new design, it's a quality car with low fuel and insurance costs that also has a great resale value.

RoadPilot extends free trial of mobile speed cam device

FOLLOWING the news last week that a British driver has been fined for flashing his headlights to warn fellow motorists of a nearby mobile speed camera site, RoadPilot has extended the free trial-period of its speed camera detection application, RoadPilot Mobile, pictured.

The application, now available for a wide range of smartphones, includes a real-time alert facility, which enables the user to notify other members of the RoadPilot Mobile user community if they pass a mobile speed camera site. This can be done quickly, easily and legally, and makes headlight-flashed warnings a thing of the past!

RoadPilot Mobile is a GPS speed camera alert application that incorporates the firm's comprehensive database of fixed and mobile speed camera locations. The extension of the trial period means that RoadPilot Mobile is available on a free trial basis to all users who download the application before February 28.

RoadPilot Mobile alerts users to all upcoming cameras, as well as the road's local speed limit.

RoadPilot has one of the most accurate databases available, and its method of data acquisition differs from those of competitors in that it has a dedicated team of surveyors who physically visit each and every fixed camera site.

Consumers can download the RoadPilot Mobile app to the full range of Nokia smartphones, including the firm's latest N8, and also to all current Blackberry devices. The availability of RoadPilot Mobile on a host of other platforms, including Apple's iPhone, will be announced soon.

RoadPilot Mobile is available for download now from the Nokia Ovi store or Blackberry App World.

New Picanto: March debut due at Geneva Motor Show

KIA has released the first official photos of the next generation Picanto city car boasting a bolder, more mature and more self-confident look.

Completely redesigned and re-engineered, the new car has grown in overall length and wheelbase and is set to redefine its position as one of the most competitive vehicles in its segment.

Kia's chief design officer, Peter Schreyer, said: "In profile, new Picanto features significant sculpting and a very prominent rising character line. The result is a layering of light and shadow and this breaks up the height, giving the car a more sure-footed stance."

While the current Picanto is available only as a five-door hatchback, the next generation range will include a sportier three-door body style for EU markets.

The new Picanto will feature four all-new powertrains in 1.0- and 1.2-litre displacements, all boasting class leading CO2 emissions levels. In addition to the standard petrol engines, LPG, bi-fuel and flex-fuel variations will be available.

The next generation Picanto will receive its official unveiling at the Geneva International Motor Show on March 1 with launch details TBA.

BOLDER: Kia's new-look Picanto.

2011 Goodwood will cover key moments in history of speed

KEY events in motor sport history will form the theme of the 2011 Goodwood Festival of Speed.

The innovations will be celebrated under the title Racing Revolutions – quantum leaps that shaped motor sport.

LORD MARCH: Goodwood founder.

The Sussex event, from July 1-3, will mark such anniversaries as the 60 years since Ferraris vanquished Alfa Romeos at Formula 1 (F1), the 30 years since the dawn of rallying's 4x4 age and 25 years since turbocharged engines ruled the roost in F1.

It is also 75 years since the European racing championship was won with a ground-breaking, rear-engined car and 20 years since a rotary-engined Mazda won the 24-hour Le Mans race.

The annual festival will also celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Indianapolis 500 with a gathering of cars and drivers that have written the history of the American motor race.

It will also be 60 years since the C-type scored the first of Jaguar's seven Le Mans victories, with the car being honoured at Goodwood.

Event organisers said: "From

motor racing's pioneering early days, engineering ingenuity has been the irresistible force behind the sport's inexorable rise, with designers constantly pushing technical boundaries in search of 'the unfair advantage'.

"It is therefore especially fitting to celebrate the innovations – both giant strides and iterative evolutions; masterstrokes and blind alleys – that have seen the racing automobile develop from crude behemoth to space-age projectile."

Goodwood Festival of Speed founder Lord March said: "I am really looking forward to having so many great cars and drivers here at the Festival of Speed to celebrate our 2011 Racing Revolutions theme."

"For me it is always magical to see so many of the world's greatest drivers, riders and machines in action."

Pug's uprated 508 launch set for April

SEVEN powertrain options will be available on the new 508 at launch in April.

The HDi 112 diesel engine is available in two versions, with either a five-speed manual gearbox or Peugeot's innovative e-HDi Stop & Start System with a six-speed electronically controlled manual gearbox (EGC). The fitment of the e-HDi Stop & Start System technology on the 508 enables customers to reduce fuel consumption (up to 15 per cent in urban driving) and with the fitment of the EGC gearbox it produces just 109g/km of CO2 in the saloon and 110g/km in the SW version.

The Peugeot 508 is also available with two different front suspension configurations. An all-new pseudo McPherson type front suspension will be the main option on the majority of the 508 range.

LOOKER: New 508.

As well as improved driveability this new set-up reduces weight, as it is 12kg lighter than the design featured on the Peugeot 407. The Peugeot 508 'GT' model features a drop link double wishbone front suspension advancing the suspension design similar to the 407. The use of a linked double wishbone helps separate suspension and steering forces to improve road holding and steering accuracy.

At the rear, the entire range is equipped with multi-arm suspension. This is designed to ensure excellent efficiency with maximum body control and ride comfort due to its superior control of longitudinal and transverse forces.

THE NEW PEUGEOT 508: Due in April.

Last-gasp Corey seals points

Chatteris Tn 1 Haverhill Rovers 2

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-12C

COREY Slater tucked away a stoppage-time winner to give Rovers a deserved win on a difficult, tight pitch.

He got on the end of a pinpoint John Burrell pass to coolly slot home after it looked as if Chatteris' equaliser five minutes from time would leave the visitors with only a point.

Earlier, the Rovers midfield worked hard without creating a lot and were grateful to Chinomnso Nkem-Paul for giving them the lead when he broke into space and fired in a rasping shot from the edge of the area.

Chatteris put their rivals under pressure after the break but could not break through until their late strike.

Ramsey 3 West Watting 2

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-15A

WEST Watting looked poised to start the second half of the season well when they led 2-1 with only five minutes remaining in a game between two well-placed sides.

However, it all fell apart for the side sponsored by www.thesafebox.co.uk and they shipped two late goals to lose a game they had enough chances to win.

James Percy and Matt Burley both threatened to open the scoring

All smiles: West Watting under-13s squad line up in their away kit, sponsored by ER Supplies of Haverhill.

CP

before Ramsey ended the stalemate on the break. Two other good chances were missed before the Reds levelled matters before the break, Percy slamming home after a good move.

With Kieran O'Neill causing havoc, the Reds hit the bar, forced good saves from the keeper and fired narrowly wide before Cameron Biggs put them ahead with a stunning long-range drive 15 minutes from time.

Godmanchester Rov 0 Haverhill Rov 1

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13A

A LATE goal from Will Bailey helped Rovers gain revenge for their defeat earlier in the season.

The Haverhill side finally made the breakthrough after their pressure and strong running started to force holes in the home rearguard.

Until Bailey broke the deadlock it had been a tight affair with Rovers' defence keeping the home side's prolific striker in check.

And the only time Haverhill let their guard slip, the crossbar came to their rescue.

Hundon 5 St Ives Rangers C 2

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-12D

HUNDON made a flying start to the new year, racing into a three-goal lead before the break to enable them to complete their 10th victory in 12 games.

Harry Sargent opened the scoring with a crisp finish, with Anders Pilley and Milo Holmes putting them firmly in charge before Hundon were rocked when St Ives pulled a goal back on the stroke of half time and then added a second straight from the restart.

Only three superb interventions from Tommy Goodwin stopped the visitors drawing level, and it needed two well-worked goals from Pilley to settle their nerves and clinch the points.

Walpole Warriors 2 Kedington 2

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13C

KEDINGTON had to settle for a point after Walpole Warriors' second-half pressure finally brought them an equaliser.

The visitors took the lead in the first half immediately after the home side produced the first shot on goal. The ball was worked through to Jamie Lingard, who slotted home.

It did not take them long to double their lead with another long-distance move, this time originating from a cross that was headed clear.

The ball was fed to Ty Alleyne, who finished well.

Just before half-time Walpole reduced the arrears and then went all-out to draw level, which they managed to do from a long-range shot.

Morrison sale a real lifeline

CASH-STRAPPED Cambridge United are set for a five-figure windfall following Michael Morrison's sale from Leicester to Sheffield Wednesday.

The former United defender from Haverhill has joined the League One club for an undisclosed fee – thought to be £250,000 – on a three-and-a-half year deal.

Morrison, 22, left United in 2008 to join the Foxes for an undisclosed fee after coming through the youth ranks at the Abbey.

Director of football Jez George said United had a sell-on fee due to them that would help the club's current financial plight.

He said: "We're aware of the reported transfer fee and the money we're due is welcome and helps our current situation. But it's not at the level where it solves the problems that have been highlighted."

Morrison made an impressive debut on Saturday in the 3-0 FA Cup, third round defeat of Bristol City, earning praise from boss Alan Irvine, and said: "I've never played in a more hard-working team."

He said moving down to League One was only a temporary step backwards, believing the Owls, can get promotion this season.

"Hopefully, this is a step forward in my career, I'm sure it will be," he said. "It was a sad time when Wednesday got relegated but I think you can take one step back to go two forward."

"This is a Championship team. When you look at Leeds, Leicester and Norwich, you see what can happen. If you do well in League One, there's no reason why you can't push on and do well in the Championship. The players here are ready. Promotion is what everybody wants."

Greene King IPA Eastern Counties League, Division One

HAVERHILL'S early lead proved to be only faint hope as they ended up losing 61-7 to West Norfolk.

Paul Bergin's quick thinking to tap a penalty from close range saw him touch down, and Kieren Ewens converted.

However, West Norfolk hit back, and ran rampant.

Haverhill's chairman of playing Tony Hope said: "In the first 25 we were leading 7-0 and pushed them round the park all afternoon with our scrummaging."

"They did not want to know us up front. Our forwards really fronted up to them. They realised to get the ball out wide and we couldn't stop them."

Abbott leads fightback to earn semi spot

Cambs Invitation Cup, quarter-final

HAVERHILL blasted back from 3-1 down on Tuesday to book their place in the semi-finals of the cup.

Stuart Wardley gave Rovers the lead from the penalty spot in the third minute after Eugene Libertucci was judged to have handled in the area.

But Libertucci made amends by scoring twice before David Wells made it 3-1 to the visitors.

Sam Holmes reduced the deficit for Haverhill soon after with Marc Abbott levelling for Rovers in the 61st minute.

Marcus Hunt made it 4-3 before Abbott fired home in the fourth minute of stoppage time.

DALTON O'Brien struck twice in the second half to help Haverhill maintain their promotion push.

The hosts, who have applied to be eligible for promotion to the next tier, led at the interval thanks to a strike from Neil Cogger, who was later forced off with a knee injury.

Former Histon youngster O'Brien doubled their lead after the break and scored again after Woodbridge had pulled one back. "It was a good win against a good side," said Haverhill manager Peter Betts. "I think we deserved to win because we created more chances than they did."

"Woodbridge have improved a lot since we last played them and it was an entertaining game. It probably could have finished 10-6 to us."

"We got the three points and it keeps us in touch with the top three. Some people think we're punching above our weight, but I'd disagree with that."

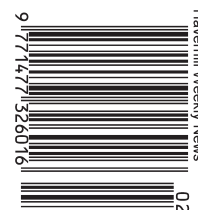

"We've made a big progression and it's important that we don't rest on our laurels. We need to keep pushing on."

"We've shown a lot of potential this season and the platform is there for us to build on."

"Hopefully, we can get a bit more financial backing to help us."

Haverhill will be hoping to keep their promotion bid on track at Clacton on Saturday before returning to the New Croft on Tuesday when they are scheduled to face Hadleigh.
